T. and has taken considerable private work in California. She has taught in the Music Department of W. T. as well as being a successful private teacher.

Miss Nellie Freeman was elected teacher of Home Economics, taking the place of Miss Fannie Sue Brasuel, resigned. Miss Freeman is a graduate of W. T. She has five years of teaching experience, the past two at Dumas. She is recommended very highly by the W. T. faculty and by school boards where she has taught.

H. G. Moore recently resigned to take a position in the Portales public schools. He was teacher of English and public speaking during the past year. This position will not be filled according to present plans. Mr. Moore will move to Portales about the first of September.

District Court In Summer Session

Two Men Escape From the City Jail Tuesday; Jury Next Week

Little business has been transacted the first week of District Court which was convened Monday by Judge E. C. Nelson. No petit jury was called for the first week, but one will be available for cases next Monday. Judge Nelson called the docket Tuesday and a number of jury cases are in prospect for trial early in the week.

Men serving on the grand jury for the session are: H. G. Persons, foreman, Anton Beckman, J. W. Byrd, Harris M. Cook, L. A. Donnell, T. S. Gerald, J. H. Holly, T. H. Knighton, Henry F. Miller, J. H. Rose, Carl L. Scott and E. C. Robinson. Serving as bailiffs are J. W. Horn, W. T. Hazlewood and Leslie Key.

N. H. Michael of Amarillo plead guilty Tuesday of theft of magnetos at the Roger Gist farm three weeks ago and was sentenced by Judge Nelson to two years and eight months in the penitentiary.

Michael and Austin Platner, who Sheriff Bob Barnett had returned from Kansas last week, escaped Tuesday night from the city jail when the door was not securely locked. Search was started yesterday when it was found the men were out of jail, but they have not yet been located.

Esther Mae Grubb was given a divorce from T. C. Grubb.

The grand jury returned five bills Tuesday against prisoners which are being held for action of the body.

Judge Nelson expects to hear several non-contested and non-jury cases before the end of this week.

Dr. C. S. Pendleton Talks About Speech-making at Rotary

Dr. C. S. Pendleton of Peabody College told members of the Rotary Club Tuesday how to make a speech. The program was in charge of Lee Johnson. Bob Jarrett, longtime friend of the speaker introduced Dr. Pendleton. Dr. Pendleton is head of the English department of Peabody and is at W. T. giving a series of talks to English students.

The public schools are teaching the children how to make speeches —something that the average man of today missed when he was attending school.

Rotary is doing a fine work in that men are taught to come down off their high-horse and be natural. The members do not pretend to be something that they are not, as all must practice in their business or profession. The world greatly needs an extension of this idea.

The speaker made several suggestions for the benefit of the members of the club: Not talk too long; not make speech too complex, using only three or four points; organize the points with the strongest at the close; be sincere; select words that the audience will understand; use stories only that fit into points; talk sense, as a good speech is never a series of stories; use words that fit into a conversation, since a speech is a conversation of the speaker with his audience, the audience responding to his suggestions in its thought.

Visitors present were: Herman Axtel, Charles Rogers, Bob Underwood, Jim Lumpkin, all of Amarillo Dr. Ford Fronabarger, J. D. Hazlewood and Anton Beckman, all of Canyon.

Mrs. J. H. Taylor and daughter, Ruth, of Kingsport, Tenn., returned home last week after spending three weeks here in the home of Mrs. Taylor's sister, Mrs. E. I. Boyce.

Billie Bee and Natalie Flesher are visiting with Mary Ann Baird and other relatives in Hereford this week.

Mrs. F. E. Miller returned Monday to her home in Houston after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. E. I. Boyce.

She taught three years before entering the Extension Department, and has served in this capacity at Kerrville for the past three years. She has been very successful in her field.

Miss Dozier became Home Demonstration Agent in Randall County on June 13, 1935, succeeding Miss Sadie Bass, who started the work in the county three years previously. Miss Dozier has been very successful in building up interest in the work and in recognition of her ability she was given a larger field of activity.

Miss Mashburn, district agent, notified the Commissioners Court at the July meeting that Miss Dozier was to be transferred, but she was unable to secure a successor until Monday of this week.

Donald Moreman, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herlie Moreman of Bryce was fatally injured Sunday at the Palo Duro State Park when he dived into a sand bank in shallow water near the last crossing in the park. He suffered a broken neck and pinched spinal cord in the accident, and died at 5:30 Sunday afternoon.

The Moreman family had assembled at the park early Sunday for a family reunion. Approximately 80 members were present and a group of the men and boys were swimming together when the youth was injured.

Funeral services were held at Memphis Monday afternoon. Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herlie Moreman of Bryce; two brothers, Bobbie and Jack; a sister, June; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moreman of Amarillo; an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Graham and an uncle, I E. Graham of near Amarillo.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Oberst this week were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gatz and Mrs. Cora Cramsey and two children of McPherson, Kans. Mr. Gatz is an uncle of Mr. Oberst and Mrs. Cramsey is a cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. Buff Burtis and children of Clinton, Okla., spent Monday at the Ray Campbell home. Mr. Burtis is editor of the Daily News in Clinton.

Campus Location Home Ec Cottage

Site North of Cousins Hall Selected By President J. A. Hill

The Home Management House which is to be ready for occupancy early in the 1937-38 session will be located north of Cousins Hall, according to a decision reached after a conference between President J. A. Hill, Miss Orpa Dennis, Head of the Department, and Architect O. M. Carder of Amarillo. The house and furniture will cost $15,000. It is expected that bids for its construction will be opened late in August.

The style of the house is to be colonial, and it will be constructed of brick. Included will be a living room and bedroom for the director of the house. Other rooms on the first floor will be a living room, 15x30, dining room, kitchen, bath, closets, and entrance halls. On the second floor there will be four bedrooms, a sewing room, bath, and closets.

The house will be occupied by seniors who are majoring in home economics and probably will be used during part of each year as a nursery school.

It is the purpose of the college to make this house a center for many social occasions on the campus and through it to show how attractively an American home can be furnished and kept.

Miss Orpa Dennis returned from Chicago where she was studying in order to assist in planning the house. She will spend the remainder of the summer vacationing at her home but will spend some time visiting home management houses on other campuses. She had previously visited those at Denton, Commerce, and Nacogdoches.

New Rule Applies To Wheat Acreage

Bill of Marvin Jones Is Only Amendment to Soil Conservation Measure Which Will Be In Effect Through 1941; See Committee Before Planting Wheat Crop

Many farmers and land owners of Randall county have become confused over the fact that Congressman Marvin Jones' new farm bill has not passed congress. Many of them are of the opinion that no farm program is in effect for 1938.

This is not true. The conservation bill which has been in operation for the past two years has been continued by congress up until 1942.

The new bill of Congressman Jones is largely a re-enactment of the present soil conservation law, with amendments to strengthen the measure. The principal feature of the new bill would take care of the surplus of farm commodities.

Farmers should keep in mind that the farm program for 1938-39-40-41 is already set up by congress and will be carried out throughout these years. The new bill of Congressman Jones will not pass the present congress, but will probably be enacted when congress re-convenes next January.

An important change is to be made in the rules governing farm payments in 1938 which all farmers should keep in mind before starting to plant wheat this fall. Soil depleting crops will be figured on the basis of acres seeded rather than upon the basis of acres harvested. This will make a great difference in the payment of those who follow the practice of overplanting.

The definite rules for 1938 have not been adopted, and will probably not be adopted before seeding time for wheat. Therefore, each wheat grower must protect himself, seeding no more than 85 per cent of his base acreage this fall, if he expects to make compliance for 1938.

Postoffice Shows Constant Increase During Past Years

Receipts of the Canyon postoffice continue to grow month by month, according to figures of Postmaster Guy Harp.

The fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, showed an increase of $1,063 over the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936.

The month of July, 1937, was $125 higher in receipts than the month of July, 1936.

During the past several years no quarterly report of the local postoffice has failed to show an increase in business, and few months recorded a smaller amount of receipts than the corresponding month of the previous year. This record made possible the erection of the new postoffice building in Canyon.

AUGUST 23rd ELECTION

The qualified voters of Texas will go to the polls on Monday, August 23rd to pass upon six constitutional amendments. It is a little unusual in Texas to hold elections on Monday, but this date was chosen in conformity to the adjournment of the legislature.

The number of qualified voters in Texas this year will be very small in comparison wth the normal election year. Those who have poll tax receipts are certainly urged to go to the polls and express their opinion on these amendments.

Amendment No. 1 on the official ballot seeks to abolish double liability of stockholders of State Banks. National Bank stockholders were released from this double liability feature several years ago. Since the government started the Federal Depositors Insurance Corporation, most State and all National Banks are under this protection. It is therefore in line with the general policy, if State Banks are to be continued, that the double liability feature should be abolished.

Amendment No. 2 provides that the State shall pay destitute children under 14 years of age not to exceed $8.00 per month for one child and not more than $12.00 per month for all children in a destitute family. This would be administered through the welfare department of the state. It is believed that several state homes in Texas might be abolished if this amendment passes. This amendment has been criticised as too loosely drawn. It is somewhat a leap in the dark to tell whether or not the destitute children would be given better care at so much per head than under the present system, or lack of system. However, welfare officials are in favor of the amendment, and it will probably be adopted.

Amendment No. 3 proposes to return to the old fee system of paying district, county and precinct officers. The News beleves that this amendment should be defeated. Officers were placed on a salary basis only two years ago, when it was shown that the old fee system was full of leaks and full of graft in the big counties. One salary bill was passed by the legislature, and has not been given a chance to work. Officers in the big counties are opposed to a return to the fee system. The present system should be tried out at least two or four more years, and then if it is found to be unworkable, it may then be abolished. However, it is inconceivable to think that the legislature cannot work out a salary system that will be fair to both the officers and to the public.

Amendment No. 4 seeks to give the taxpayers a break in the payment of their taxes. In the first place it provides that property shall never be assessed for taxes at more than its fair market value. Of course this is going to mean a great reduction of values in many school districts of the state where assessable values are far above the present cash value. Whether the present system of assessing taxes for all that the taxpayers will stand is right and legal, is a mooted question. In most places it is very hard to establish the fair cash market value. Exceptions in the case of loan companies, possibly few people will raise much question as to this part of the amendment. The second part of the amendment is really the one that is worthwhile. It provides that the taxpayer should be given a discount for the prompt payment of taxes. During the depression, the legislature kidded along those who could not, or those who would not pay their taxes by offering to remit penalty and interest. The fellow who could not pay up, received no benefits. The fellow who could pay received the benefits. The fellow who had regularly marched up to the tax collector and paid off on time was the one who took it on the chin. He paid on time, received no credit for having met his obligations, while the fellow who could but would not pay reaped the harvest. It is to be hoped that this practice has been abolished forever. It is nothing more than right that the taxpayer who pays his taxes on time should benefit by getting a discount for prompt payment the same as most wholesale houses allow a discount to customers for prompt payment.

Amendment No. 5 refers only to Harris county. Harris county, with Houston its county seat, is the largest and richest county in Texas. The county wishes to vote special taxes upon themselves for the purpose of building a county road system rather than issue bonds to do this improvement. The people figure that the county can increase taxes and pay cash for these improvements cheaper than they can by issuing bonds. Of course this does not suit the bonding companies. If Harris county experiments with this system and finds that it is profitable, a lot of fellows who have promoted bond issues will have to go to work for a living. The amendment is a sane and sensible one, and should be adopted. If it is a success, and there is no reason to think that it will not be a success, it will be submitted in a few years as a state wide proposition.

Amendment No. 6 applies to all blind people of the state over 21 years of age, making provision that a maximum of $15 may be paid to such persons. Since the number of blind in the state is small, and since most of them have a mighty tough time in getting along, the students of welfare in the state are greatly interested in seeing that this amendment is passed.

The News is opposed to only one of the amendments—No. 3. This one will probably be discussed more before the election date than any of the others. However, the voter should not allow his mind to be confused in his opposition to this one and condemn all of the six amendments if he finds he agrees that No. 3 is an ill-timed amendment. It is expected that Governor Allred will make several speeches in support of this amendment, but his stand will be challenged by several prominent speakers in various parts of the state.

Voters are urged to make a close study of these amendments now—and then go to the polls on Aug. 23.

Is Governor Allred really in the race for re-election? In this issue of The News, the Governor turns columnist, and tells his side of the school per capita row. Read his article. A few days ago Secretary of State Ed Clark announced that the Governor would seek a third term. The next day Governor Jimmy stated that "Ed talks too much." Three weeks ago Jim Ferguson said that if enough people demanded it, Ma Ferguson would seek a third term. In the meanwhile Attorney General Bill McCraw keeps on shelling the woods. While in Amarillo last week Colonel Ernest Thompson announced his plans were definite to run for governor. Two ex-governors seeking a third term and two redheaded super-campaigners ought to make things interesting in Texas next year.

Members of congress who wish to duck the responsibility of voting on measures which the President advocates are trying to adjourn congress. Election comes next year for all members of the House and one-third of the senators. If the members do not have to vote on these vital questions they can side-step when they go before the people. President Roosevelt is nearly as strong with the people of the nation as he has ever been. He can defeat a lot of those who are opposing his program if he takes the notion next year. For this reason the revolting congressmen hope to get out of Washington before they get their political heads cracked.

Football time is about here. Grafters are taking advantage of the time and are combing the territory to get out football posters. A couple of fellows hire a pair of good looking local girls in each town, solicit the local merchants and make from $30 to $40 off of each job. Do not bite on such schemes. If any football posters are to be put out in Canyon, Coach Al Baggett of the Buffaloes and Supt. Irby Carruth of the high school will see that the local business people are not imposed on, and will name the persons to get out these posters.

Citizens of Texas are asked to contribute $1.00 each in raising a fund of $1,000,000 to establish the Big Bend National Park. The legislature passed an appropriation of $750,000 for this purpose but Governor Allred vetoed the appropriation. Mexico is establishing a big national park just across the Rio Grande. If the money is raised and this park is finally established it would make the greatest park in the world. The National Park Service is anxious to develop the park if the people will furnish the land.

Rapid Development of Trained 'Seeing Eye' Proving Invaluable as Guide for Blind

THE heavy, swirling traffic of a large city, forever a source of fear and danger to the blind, need no longer hold the terror it does for those unfortunates who are doomed to spend their lives in temporary, partial, or even permanent darkness.

And the reason for this is the "seeing eye."

The "seeing eye" is nothing more than a German shepherd dog—more familiarly known in America as the police dog—and is becoming more and more frequently used as a guide for the blind.

For years dogs have been used for this purpose, but it has been only since the World War that the "seeing eye" movement has been adopted from a scientific viewpoint, studied, and brought to the position it now occupies.

So many men were blinded during the war that the safety problem for those so afflicted became acute. A German organization at Potsdam was the first to train dogs on a large scale. The movement spread rapidly. Today four organizations in the United States carry on this work. They are the Seeing Eye in Tennessee; the New York Association for the Blind, with training grounds in Princeton, N. J.; the La Salle kennels in Minnesota, and the Wilson kennels in Michigan.

* * *

BECAUSE they are less easily distracted, female dogs are used for the most part. Each dog is subjected to a rigorous training for a period of several weeks. She must learn to stop when she comes to a curb, must learn the commands "forward," "left," and "right." The dog must learn not only to obey, but to disobey as well, should her master give the wrong command and unconsciously lead himself into danger.

With the blind man holding onto a rigid, handle-like leash, the dog as a rule walks about two feet ahead, picking her way through crowds and avoiding telephone poles and other obstacles. The animal serves as eyes for the blind master so well that it needs no command to quicken the pace, or slow it down because of congestion.

But the blind person, also, must undergo a period of training before he is ready to cooperate with his guide. To begin with, he should like dogs and understand them as much as possible. He must develop his hearing so that he can sense changes in traffic direction in order to be of assistance to the dog when traffic lights change color.

But above all, the blind must develop confidence in the animal in front of them. This is accomplished by easy stages, beginning in sections with little traffic, going on to more crowded areas, and then finally to the heavily traveled districts.

* * *

THERE is no end to where the dogs might go or what they might do with their masters. One dog attended classes daily at the University of Pennsylvania, where his master was a student. Another took rides in a canoe while her blind master paddled leisurely around the lagoon.

Recently President Roosevelt signed a bill making it legal for blind people to take their "seeing eyes" into the coaches on railroad trains, where heretofore they were forced to put the animals in the baggage cars. Street cars also will be compelled to admit canine passengers.

The development of the "seeing eye" appears by far to be the noblest thing the dog has ever done for man. In reality, it represents a real sacrifice. No longer can she live a normal dog's life, with a large degree of freedom. The work entails tireless and constant devotion to duty and a curtailing of many canine instincts, even to foregoing chasing a cat which the dog may spy on the street.

President Roosevelt's signature on the bill permitting "seeing eye" dogs to accompany their masters on railway coaches and street cars opened the way for scenes such as shown above, where a handsome police dog looks on alertly as her blind master, A. W. Lohler of Pittsburgh, hands his ticket to the conductor.

Noted Explorer To Lecture In Lyceum Program Friday

James C. Wilson, intrepid explorer, and companion of Francis Flood on a cross-continent trip in Africa will be featured in a lyceum program in the auditorium of the Administraton Building at 8:15 o'clock Friday night.

"Africans Are People" is the subject upon which Mr. Wilson will lecture. His lectures, which have been given in many of the foremost colleges of the nation, have received enthusiastic praise. Thruout the lectures given by Jim Wilson run the deep belief in the brotherhood of man, and the inate goodness and righteousness of human beings, and therefore a strong optimism, all of which make a vital appeal to his audiences.

For ten years he has been poking about the odd corners of the world in picturesque ways. In a home-made row boat he floated down the Yukon, on a lumbering old freighter he crossed the Atlantic, by Motorcycle he crossed Africa, he crossed India by native caravan, he went through Burma on foot and by ox cart, and down the Me Nam River of Siam by bamboo raft. These adventures and more will be discussed in a humorous straight forward style Friday night by Mr. Wilson.

The lecture will be illustrated by moving pictures colored slides, and native exhibits. His lecture on the trip across Africa is worthwhile for the amusing incidents related by the traveller. He and a companion traveled across a part of Africa—an unexplored part of Africa—on motorcycles. The two men left a tramp steamer because of the cockroaches that kept getting in the soup, and set out across the 4500 miles of Africa that had not been seen by white men before. They were without guides, interpreters, firearms, or porters. The couple made their way across deserts and through jungles for six months covering 1200 miles.

Admission to the lecture is 50 cents or student activity ticket.

DiMaggio, Called Greatest All-Round Star, Looms as Baseball's Dominant Personality

BY IRVING DIX

THEY say of Giuseppe DiMaggio that he is the greatest all-round player in baseball today—

They say of Giuseppe DiMaggio that he is the heir-apparent to Babe Ruth's title of home-run king—

They say—

Yes, they are saying many things about the New York Yankees' phenomenal outfielder, known not as Giuseppe but more familiarly as just plain Joe. And some of the wiser baseball men claim you can't say too much about the 22-year-old San Francisco Italian who as a freshman last year startled the American League with his terrific hitting power, tremendous, whiplike throwing arm, smoothness afield, and natural baseball instinct.

Obviously possessing everything needed to make him one of the game's greats, Joe is even better this season.

His hitting especially has improved, and every time he walks up to the plate some pitcher goes through a minor nightmare. Facing DiMaggio is what makes every hurler wish he were a shortstop, a catcher, or even an umpire, but never a pitcher.

* * *

GIVE him a curve ball and he'll hit it a country mile. Dish up a fast one and he'll whistle it past your ears in two-note harmony. Possessor of as fine an eye as anyone has seen since little Joey Sewell stood by and looked 'em over, DiMaggio's all-round hitting ability today is rivaled only by that of Ducky Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals.

But most significant of all is his penchant for hitting the ball for four bases. Should he continue at the rate he's traveling, he'll lead the junior circuit in home runs, with a figure of 40 or better for the season. For a second-year man—or anyone, it might be added—that is something of an accomplishment.

How DiMaggio hits as many homers as he does isn't quite understandable in some quarters, when it is pointed out that Joe is really a line-hitter and a right-hander at that. But the fact that he is lofting them over the fences in every park in the league attests to the power that lies in his shoulders and wrists.

Although it's hardly possible he'll ever exceed Ruth's home run record, DiMaggio, according to present indications, should become the dominating personality of the diamond.

DiMaggio spells color, the thing that makes the turnstiles click.

* * *

LOU GEHRIG may be every bit the ball player young Joe is, but he doesn't quite have that electric spark, the intangible something which DiMaggio embodies. Always overshadowed by Ruth during the Bambino's career with the Yanks, Larruping Lou was the logical man to succeed the Babe in the the hearts of the fans, but it is the younger man, coming along at the right time, who takes over the role.

Only one other may lay claim to Joe's obvious position as number one fan-magnet, and that's Dizzy Dean. The Great One, however, is a pitcher, and as such works only every fourth day at best. Then, too, there are a lot of folks who don't care for Dean's general attitude.

But everyone likes Joe. The personable, 200-pound husky is a natural, either on the avenue or in the ball park. The kids on the street or the boys in the dugout will verify that, and there's every indication that DiMaggio will be around 10 or 12 years more.

Only in his second year of major league competition, young Joe DiMaggio, silhouetted above as he takes a full swing at the ball, is well on his way to becoming the outstanding personality of the diamond, eclipsing even older stars like Lou Gehrig, left below, and the great Dizzy Dean, right.

Ferman Neal Sawyer Died In Canadian Hospital Friday

Mr. Ferman Neal Sawyer, superintendent of schools in Canadian and a graduate of West Texas State died at 11 o'clock Friday in a Canadian hospital after an illness of nine months. He was 42 years old.

A teacher for the last 22 years, Mr. Sawyer is also a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

He was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, scholarship society of Southern National Education Association, past president of the Rotary Club of Canadian and a former President of the Ex-Students Association of W. T.

Before going to Canadian, Mr. Sawyer taught in Farwell and Tulia.

He was born in Asheville, N. C., on July 9, 1895.

HE SAVED MONEY—BUT!

Some years ago the Pulitzer Prize award for the best cartoon of the year went to John T. McCutcheon. The cartoon showed a sad and shabby man seated upon a park bench. A squirrel playing in front of him asked: "Why didn't you save yor money?" The derelict replied, "I did!"

Thousands of men have saved their money—only to lose it at an age when their fortunes could not be rebuilt. For saving is one thing, and security of principal is another. Unhappily, they don't always go together.

Every man should place a large part of his savings in some plan, such as life insurance, which guarantees the maximum of security. Only the spare dollars should be used for speculation—for ventures which, though they may return a great profit, may also result in 100 per cent loss of the principal employed. Before taking risks, it is essential to build a sound financial bulwark for the future.

Malcolm Bull Working With Philadelphia Academy Group

Malcolm Bull, a student here during the long term, is again working at the world famed gravel pit in Blackwater draw near Clovis, N. M. This is his second summer with the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science; working under the direction of E. B. Howard. At the present he is the only member of the party from this section of the country.

The immediate aim of this expedition is to determine the direct association of animals of the post-Pleistocene age with that of early man. This early man is known as the Folsom man which was named after the unusual type of point, found at the type site near Folsom, N. M. Although searchers have combed the entire southwest for his remains, he is still a stranger, as no skeletons have been found. Folsom man is believed to have lived in this area immediately following the retreat of the last ice sheet, some 13,000 years ago.

From Blackwater draw flint points and bone implements were uncovered, which were identified as the same culture as the already classified Folsom point. These finds were hailed by authorities as the most significant in the development of proof of man's age. After Dr. Howard's return from Pennsylvania last season, the gravel pit became one of the most noted Folsom sites in the entire country.

It was Malcolm Bull who made the significant find of a broken portion of a bone shaft, apparently used as a spear by Folsom man. This was found among the bones of an extinct mammoth and is the first of its type to be identified with the Pleistocine age. Bull is an archology student here.

What Is the Farmer's Share?

Milk Industry Foundation Chart

A recent investigation of farm income by the Federal Trade Commission shows that the dairy farmer receives a substantial portion of the consumer's dollar.

For milk, 50 per cent of the consumer's dollar went to the farmer, minus transportation from the farm. The figures indicate that the transportation item averaged around 5 per cent, leaving an average return of 45 per cent for the farmer. This is a larger share for the producer than generally credited by the layman.

For butter, the farmer got about 60 per cent of the price the consumer paid, for beef about 40 per cent, for wheat about 13 per cent of the bread dollar and for tobacco 12 per cent.

Relieve Dizzy Spells Or Money Back

She gives wonderful advice to women passing thru those 40 to 50 "critical years."

Mrs. L. B. writes: "I'm going thru change of life and been having hot flashes, blood rushing to head. Also such sweats, perspiration would run from my body. After first few days of taking Kruschen I noticed a difference in my head, after I finished the first bottle, the flashes were getting further apart and the night sweats less. I and my friends swear by Kruschen."

If you want to help avoid headaches, dizziness, smothering spells, weakness, fits of depression—if you want to keep feeling more healthy and happy—up and about your work—take a third teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning.

Kruschen is a superb blend of 6 mineral salts, each with its own special work to do—kidneys, liver, gall bladder and bowels are helped kept functioning normally and when important body organs are working properly you may be sure there will be less constitutional agitation. It costs but little and if it doesn't help you wonderfully in a month—money back.

When police found this automobile had straddled a boxcar after hurtling downward 35 feet from the North Broadway bridge in Los Angeles, they expected to extricate a dead man. But C. B. Flowers, the driver, coolly climbed out of his car, with only a slight scratch to show for his experience.

WHEN 111,000 AMERICANS DIED

A generation has passed since the sinking of the Titanic, yet that great disaster is still well remembered. Fifteen hundred persons died.

The Johnstown flood will never be forgotten—the world was aghast when the death total of 2,209 was tabulated.

The world war was the most sanguinary conflict in history. In it, 50,000 Americans lost their lives, and they are still mourned.

The recent Texas school explosion, which killed 294 children, brought universal sympathy and horror.

Yet last year 111,000 Americans met accidental death—more than twice as many as were killed in the great war—and it caused hardly a ripple in the flow of news. We read of some of those accidents in our paper—"John Jones, aged 45, died in emergency hospital after being struck by an automobile"—turned the page, and forgot them. This astounding callousness—this attitude of "Accidents always happen to the other fellow, not to me or mine"—is death's greatest ally.

Among men, heart disease is the only thing which kills more men than accidents. Such plagues as cancer, tuberculosis, pneumonia—plagues which ahe being fought by all the resources of science—are down the list. Recklessly driven automobiles, burns, falls, drownings, and so on—these are the great killers.

Practically every accident is preventable—and this is especially true of the motor car, greatest of all the great killers. Care, competence, courtesy—these make up the accident prevention triumvirate. It's up to you—to all of us.

"The Rest of the Record"

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN—There are times when every public official wishes he could lay before the people all the facts in a current controversy, so that the people themselves might judge whether his acts were justified.

Several editor friends to whom I made this comment have replied, "Well, Jimmie, why don't you write out those facts as you see them?" So I have decided to do just that, and take advantage of the generosity of these editors by laying before their readers what I call "the rest of the record." This is my first try at it.

SCHOOL CRITICISM UNFAIR

It's a strange thing when public officials are criticised for reducing taxes—for reducing taxes without detracting one iota from public service. Yet, believe it or not, that is exactly what is happening in the current controversy over the state's public school apportionment.

Because State Comptroller George Sheppard and I cut the property tax rate for school purposes from 20 cents to 7 cents, we are accused by other public officials—who should be as deeply concerned as we are over the average man's tax burden—of taking something, somehow, from the school children of Texas.

I tell you flatly, that is not true. At their best, these statements give you but a part of the record. And a very distorted part, at that.

Every informed school official knows that since I have been governor, the schools have received far more aid from the state than ever before in the state's history.

RECORD FRIENDLY

For parents in general, who are not apprised of the mechanics of state aid, this explanation is in order: The state helps support schools through two means. First, there is the available school fund, which is divided among the districts on the basis of registered children of school age.

Then there is the "rural aid fund," or the "equalization fund," so-called, which is an additional grant to poorer rural districts.

Rural aid has jumped two and a half million dollars each year I have been in office! When I was inaugurated, it totalled three million dollars; today it is five and a half million. The present controversy isn't over rural aid; it is concerned with the available school fund, distributed on a basis of so much for each child—the state "per capita."

Now this fact is undisputed: During the first year of my administration, the state contributed $19 per student in the per capita apportionment toward the education of each of approximately 1,500,000 Texas children—and this payment likewise was the highest amount in Texas history!

But here is the fact which the critics want you to forget: the per capita this next year will be even greater—at least $20, and perhaps a little more—and at the same time property tax payers will get a tax reduction! The revenues will come from other sources than ad valorem taxes on property.

Does that sound like taking anything from anybody?

* * *

TAX REDUCTION STAND

Upon what are the critics basing their charges? Well, here's how it all happened:

The law says the per capita shall be fixed by the State Board of Education, on or before August 1st. At this time, the Comptroller shall furnish the Board of Education with an estimate of available funds. The Board is then required to do a simple problem in arithmetic—divide the total anticipated revenues by the total number of pupils—and the answer is the per capita.

Now another law says that the Automatic Tax Board, of which Mr. Sheppard and I are members, shall meet by July 20th and set a property tax which will insure enough anticipated revenues to pay $17.50 per capita.

I construe these two laws to mean that the tax board must meet first, find out how much money will be available for schools, and vote enough property taxes to make up the difference. Last year, that's what we did. We found we could reduce the school tax from 35 cents to 20 cents, and still pay the schools $17.50. Not a soul objected. Happily, revenues from other sources were greater than expected, and a per capita of $19.00 was possible.

But this year, for some mysterious reason, the Board of Education met first, and presumed that we would continue the 20 cent tax, regardless of need. Why they so presumed it as deep a mystery as why they met before they possibly could know what the revenues would be—for they couldn't know until after the tax board met. With the 20 cent tax rate, they could make a per capita apportionment of $22, or expressed another way, an increase of $4,680,000 over last year.

I firmly believe that certain people thought they saw a way to tie the hands of the Tax Board and force Mr. Sheppard and me to yield to political expediency at the expense of the taxpayers—who certainly ought to be entitled to some consideration. Everybody knows how burdensome real estate taxes have become.

Right here I want to say George Sheppard showed unusual courage. Most everybody knew how I felt on the matter; so they concentrated on him and he was deluged with telegrams, letters, and personal visits to play politics. He is a fine public official and I suggest if you approve his course, you drop him a note. He will appreciate it.

Mr. Sheppard and I saw eye to eye on this matter; we believe that the law makes it mandatory on us to see that the schools get $17.50 per capita. We did that and they're going to get $20; and at the same time, the taxpayers are going to get a tax reduction.

As a final citation of the record, concerning the attitude of public school teachers: In February of this year, one of the heads of the Teachers Association told a legislative committee that if they could "hold the $19 and maybe get $1 more they would be tickled to death." By that statement, the teachers have reason today to be plenty happy.

* * *

The Government of Mexico has invited Mrs. Allred and me to visit that country. We are leaving Sunday, August 1, by train, and next week I hope to have something interesting to tell you about our neighbors. This will be our first real vacation and we are looking forward to a lot of sightseeing.

TRADE AT HOME

Paducah Post: A great deal is being said by merchants regarding people of the town going to some other place to do their shopping. Too often we hear some person say he goes elsewhere to buy certain articles because they are not available here, and nine times out of ten he has not tried to find what he desires in the local stores. Running out-of-town to shop has become a habit and trying to justify the act by saying that money is being saved is a poor excuse—if you figure in the expenses for gas, oil and depreciation on your car in making the trip.

Paducah would be a wonderful town if every citizen supported it whole-heartedly. Every person should exhibit his loyalty by trading at home. After all, what we own is in Paducah and the money we spend here goes for the up-keep of the town in some indirect form. Why spend our money which we earn here to help keep up some other town?

Japs Train for Peace and War Simultaneously

War clouds have cast their shadow on a rather paradoxical situation in Japan. Scheduled to be host to the nations of the world in the 1940 Olympic Games, Tokio presents a contrast in preparations for peace and war. At bottom left are shot putters training in a park in hopes of making the Nipponese Olympic squad three years hence. At the right are other young Japanese in training as members of a volunteer student bicycle brigade which would offer its services in event of war. In the top photo may be seen modernized Chinese troops, tin hats and all, as they moved up to the defense of Peiping, focal point of the latest Sino-Japanese crisis.

New Arrangements On Exhibit at Pioneer Hall

Four arrangements have recently been put on display at Pioneer Hall. Each arrangement, namely the Mexican, Spanish, Brazilian, and Indian Weapon arrangements, is in a spearate large case.

Most of the Mexican arrangement is from the Frank Mitchell collection, consisting of a bridle bit, iron, sword, two hair quirts, spurs, watch chain, powder horn, bull fighting spear, known as a banderillo, and a hammer.

In the Spanish arrangement is a bridle bit; a pair of spurs; a dagger and sheath; handcuffs; and a chain coat of mail, hip length, weighing 22 pounds.

Among the Brazilian articles is an iron stirrup, crupper, handcuffs, bridle bits, gun quirt, bridle with hand hammered ornaments, a horn drinking cup, and a South American buckskin lariat rope. All of the above articles are from the Frank Mitchell collection except the lariat rope which was exhibited at the Centennial in 1876 and is from the Susan J. Allan collection.

The Indian Weapon arrangement consists of tomahawks, war clubs, lances, knifes, hammers, a stone ax, a meat scraper, a bayonet, and an arrow polisher.

Restoring Skeleton of Pliocene Horse at Pioneer Hall

Restoration of the skeleton of a horse of the upper Pliocene period is nearing completion at Pioneer Hall under the direction of Mrs. C. Stuart Johnston, who is in charge of paleontology work here during the absence of Mr. Johnston who is attending the University of California.

Though no courses in geology or paleontology are offered in the summer, Mrs. Johnston is doing extensive field work and adding to the exhibits in the museum. She spends four days each week in the Palo duro Canyon directing excavations being done by a WPA crew. She spends the remainder of her time in the laboratory at Pioneer Hall preparing fossils for exhibit.

Farmers Battle Beetle Menace

Already plagued with grasshoppers, the corn-borer, and a half-dozen other forms of pestilence, American farmers have beseeched the federal government to aid them in combatting the latest scourge to attack their crops—the Japanese beetle. In the photo above, Fred Gilmore, federal agent, is placing a beetle trap near Kenosha, Wis. The trap is baited with an aromatic substance that attracts the adult beetles. The insects spend most of their lives in the soil, where the grub feeds on the roots of plants, and then hatches into an adult which comes up to eat flowers, fruit and foliage.

Helen Forsakes Net for Links

From tennis to golf in a few easy lessons is the transition being made these days by Helen Wills Moody at Reno, while she puts in her six weeks residence necessary under Nevada divorce laws. The former net star, shown above, ready to take a practice swing, has taken up the links game rather seriously while awaiting a divorce from Frederick S. Moody, Jr., of San Francisco, to whom she was married in 1929.

Dalhart Planning Big Celebration Monday - Tuesday

A majestic tempo of tribute to the old cowboys here, and over yonder will open the Second Annual XIT Reunion in Dalhart next Monday and Tuesday.

A parade at 11 a. m. Monday will move through North Dalhart, into South Dalhart and disband in time for members of the XIT Association to meet prior to the rodeo at 2:00 and decide on plans for next year.

Honor places in the procession will go to Judge James D. Hamlin, Farwell and W. A. Askew, Amarillo, President and Secretary of the XIT Association; to distinguished guests who are to include Lieut.-Gov. Walter Woodul; Attorney General Wm. McCraw; Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith, Former Speaker of the House, Coke Stevenson; J. Frank Dobie of Austin, and J. Evetts Haley of Canyon, both famous Southwestern authors; Al Blocker, Big Wells, who with the first general manager of the XIT ranch figured out the XIT brand in 1885 at Buffalo Springs, No. 1 division headquarters, 30 miles north of Dalhart.

Miss Sydna Yokley, 14-year old Canadian, Texas, girl, who is a rodeo sensation in riding Brahma steers and roping, will carry the U. S. flag at the head of the parade. With her will ride Mayor Frank B. Farwell carrying the specially made XIT flag.

The rodeo is at 2 p. m. each day. Monday it will open with taps for the XIT boys who are riding "over yonder" followed by a silent moment in memory of their achievements.

There will be one and perhaps two special tours to the old No. 1 headquarters at Buffalo Springs where the foreman's residence, the bunk houses, barns and corrals stand as they were built in 1885—the oldest structures in Dallam County.

Each night at 8:30 the XIT Historical Pageant will be held, a glittering spectacle, turning back pages of time to re-enact the most notable episodes of the XIT ranch and of this part of the West. Included will be the Creation Ballet, a scene of gorgeous splendor, symbolizing the birth of the world. Then will be episodes indicating the march of the centuries. A Comanche Indian encampment, pioneers in covered wagons, an early church service, a night at a cow camp, a re-enactment of the scene in Austin in 1881 when the State agreed to give three million acres of Panhandle land, that later became the XIT, to the Farwell Brothers of Chicago in return for the red granite $3,000,000 Austin capitol. There will be a brief parade of the West's most noted rendezvous, Old Tascosa, and many humorous events of early XIT history.
